

Intermediate Foundations of GBV Practice

About this course

In this self-paced course you will gain substantial learning on a range of issues to enhance your skills and abilities. This course is guided by a trauma-informed framework and developed for those who want to deepen their knowledge and skills. In order to understand the concepts presented in this course, we highly recommend that you first complete Foundation of VAW prior to starting this intermediate level course. This course has been developed in collaboration with various content experts.

You will learn

1. Intersectional and trauma-informed frameworks
2. Meaningful inclusion, rights-based and primary prevention models and approaches
3. Challenging dominant approaches to ensure inclusion for all women and trans people
4. Expanding your understanding and making your approaches relevant for all types of gender-based violence. .

After completion you will be able to

1. Foster, strengthen and apply relationship-building skills
2. Understand the intersections between social location and violence and strengthen your approach to meet the needs of those your supporting.
3. Deepen your advocacy skills for those who don't fit or are not adequately served by our existing systems.

How do I register?

To gain access to this course, please register with the Training Hub to set up your free account by visiting training.oaith.ca.

